

Dane County Client-Centered Case Management Program

(For senior adults 60 years and older)

Promoting Independence for Senior Adults

Aging Network

Dane County is fortunate to have a vast network of aging services and resources. Many are interdependent public, private partnerships that are community-based.

The Case Management Program is a partnership between Dane County government and geographically-defined agencies. Dane County funds this program through tax levy. The purpose of this partnership is to promote senior adult independence within our community for as long as possible. Dane County's Case Management Program is a contracted service of the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) of Dane County.

Dane County opened an Aging & Disability Resource Center (ADRC) in late 2012 which provides short-term Information & Referral services. AAA & ADRC work collaboratively to meet the short and long-term needs of seniors in Dane County.

What Are We?

Organized group of trained Case Management professionals whose primary goal is to provide older adults in Dane County the support they need to achieve and maintain optimum independence in their community through the assessment of need and the coordination and monitoring of community-based services

- Umbrella organization is the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) of Dane County (Department of Human Services)
- Case Managers follow the National Association of Social Workers' Code of Ethics and adhere to Case Management Standards as approved by the AAA Board of Directors

Case Manager's Role

Case Managers assess the needs of the client and the client's family (when appropriate) and arrange, coordinate, monitor, evaluate, and advocate for multiple services to meet specific complex needs and preferences

- They conduct home visits to assess the needs of each senior adult and then develop individualized service plans for ongoing/ long-term services (the term “home” includes houses and apartments but not nursing homes or assisted living facilities)
- They provide professional assistance in a confidential manner

Case Manager's Role

Client-centered case management is based on the recognition that a trusting and empowering direct relationship between Case Manager and client is essential to facilitate a client's use of services along a continuum of care and to restore or maintain independent functioning to the fullest extent possible. It requires the Case Manager to develop and maintain a professional relationship with the client, which may include linking the client with systems that provide needed advocacy, services, resources, and opportunities.

Referrals

Referrals to the client-centered case management program come from individual older adults and their families, neighbors and friends, social service agencies (including ADRC), medical clinics, clergy, hospitals, and other professionals. During the referral process, the Case Manager attempts to gather initial information from the client in order to determine what assistance is needed.

Assessment

Assessment is conducted during face-to-face meetings with the client, and information is gathered to determine whether the person needs on-going case management services. If appropriate, Client Intake and Functional Assessment forms are initiated. Requests for services are followed-up in a timely manner to determine eligibility for client-centered case management services.

Service Plan

The primary goal of client-centered case management is to optimize client functioning by a thorough assessment of needs. Using this assessment, the Case Manager, with the client's input, develops a plan that will provide services in the most efficient and effective manner. Goals are developed and monitored.

Information & Assistance (I&A)

This is a service of the Aging & Disability Resource Center (ADRC) of Dane County. It provides information to the general public about resources and programs in areas such as: disability and long-term care related services and living arrangements, health, adult protective services, employment and training for people with disabilities, transportation, home maintenance, and nutrition. ADRC I&A activities are not to exceed a period of 90 days and are thus not considered on-going case management.
