E. Presentations1. Friends of Stewart Park

Mary McDonough Sutter and Jack Saltes gave an overview of volunteer efforts at Stewart Lake County Park. The small but dedicated Friends group remove invasive species, restoring oak woodlands, savannas and prairies, including the "goat prairie" a remnant on the steep hillside above the lake. A rain garden was installed near the beach to improve stormwater management and lake water quality. The park's bluebird trail has fledged over 1,000 bluebirds since the early 2000s.

2. History of Stewart Lake County Park, the First Dane County Park

Stewart Lake was a popular recreation destination even before becoming a County Park. In 1912, Mount Horeb residents formed the Lake Park Association to raise funds for land acquisition, road access, and dam construction. A ski jump was added in 1913 and hosted competitions for several years. After the original dam washed out in 1915, public use declined. Dane County acquired the land in 1935, making it the first County Park. The CCC built early park amenities. Historical photos were shared, and current features include a picnic shelter made from park-harvested timber, play equipment, hiking trails, an accessible fishing pier, and a beach.
