Final Thoughts

- Over 700 expert staff participate every day in serving our community.
- We hear, first-hand, the needs and gaps of service in the community.
- Constant request to increase access to DCDHS services, through experts who have shared lived experiences, from kids to our older adults.
- Critical for Dane County to consider diversity in staff in many ways: racially, ethnically, linguistically, lived experience with regard to housing insecurity, addiction, mobility, justice-involved, and more.
- Providing support for community members to receive case management or peer support has the opportunity to be much more just and inclusive of all Dane County residents, if we reconsider all options to add positions to DCDHS.

Final Thoughts

- Our focus is on long-term improvements, consistent with our strategic plan, to meet present and future Dane County needs
- The best way to support what we do at DCDHS is to help us stay above water on the day-to-day while we strive towards our longer term vision
