The Dane County Continuous Cover Program (CCP) was established in in 2019 to financially assist landowners converting traditional row-cropped fields to continuous vegetative cover. Continuous vegetation can increase water filtration, reduce soil erosion, improve water quality, build soil health, increase wildlife habitat, sequester carbon and diversify production practices. Starting in 2024, landowners could choose between a 15-year CCP cost-share agreement or a permanent conservation easement option that will ensure continuous cover in perpetuity. Landowners already enrolled in CCP are able to convert their current contracts into a permanent conservation easement.
